

Labelling Gold Standard Examples

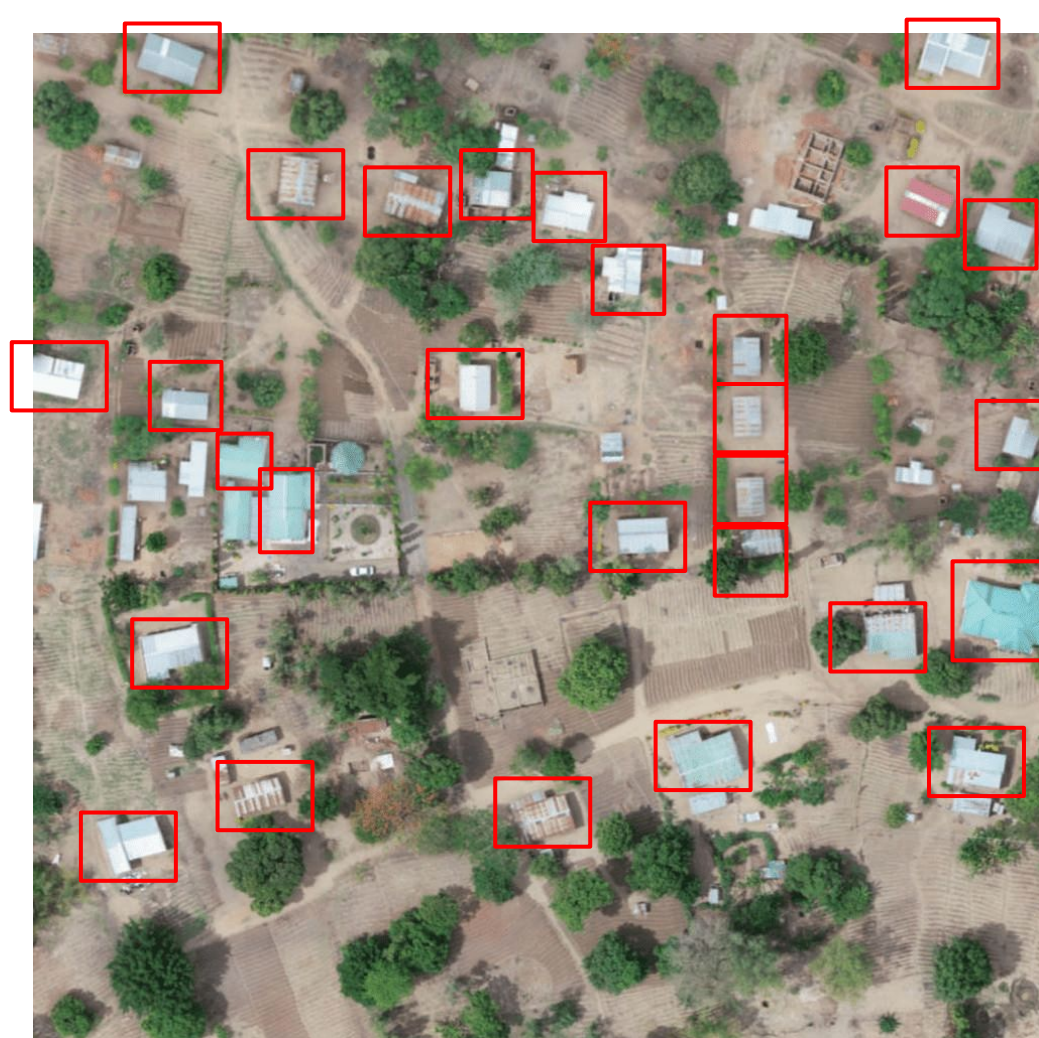

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	12	0

- Most houses in the are approximately 10m x 6m
- The notable unlabeled structure in this image has width ~2m which signifies it is very likely to be a dwelling unit (It is possibly a container for storage)
- The other small structures are also excluded based on house dimensions

Thatch	Tin	Other
1	2	0

- The thatch house in the image is smaller than the tin houses.
- The wide clear bare ground around the structure signifies that the structure is habitable.

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	27	0

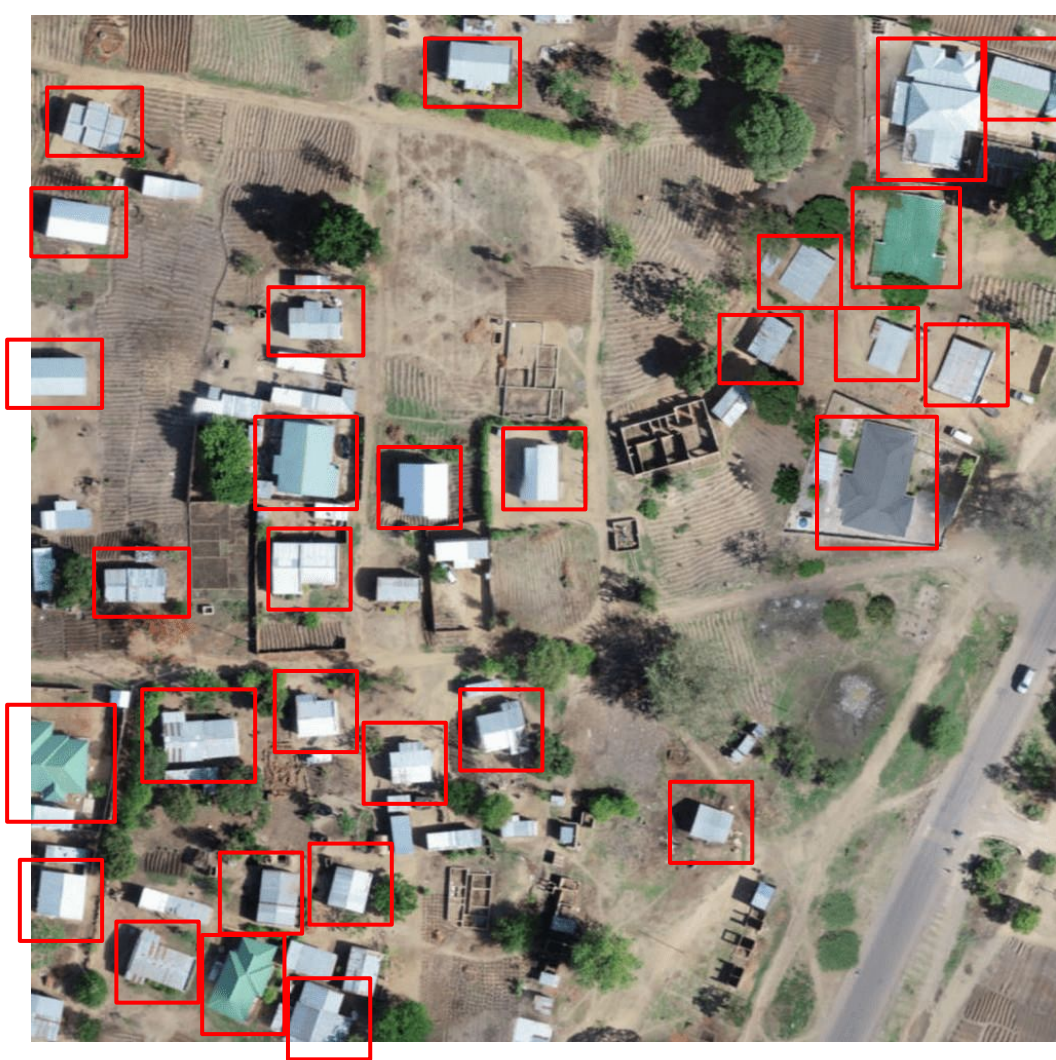

The structures that are not labeled have very little dimensions to be dwelling units compared to the whole scene.

These small tin structures are either temporary storage structures or kitchen or toilets

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	3	0

Structures that are not labeled have less dimensions such that they can be probably be temporary housing units, toilets , bathroom or kitchen outside the main house

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	30	0

- Structures not labeled have less dimensions and are probably temporary storage structures, kitchen or toilets outside main house

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	3	0

- Unlabeled structures are houses under construction (probably at window level)

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	1	0

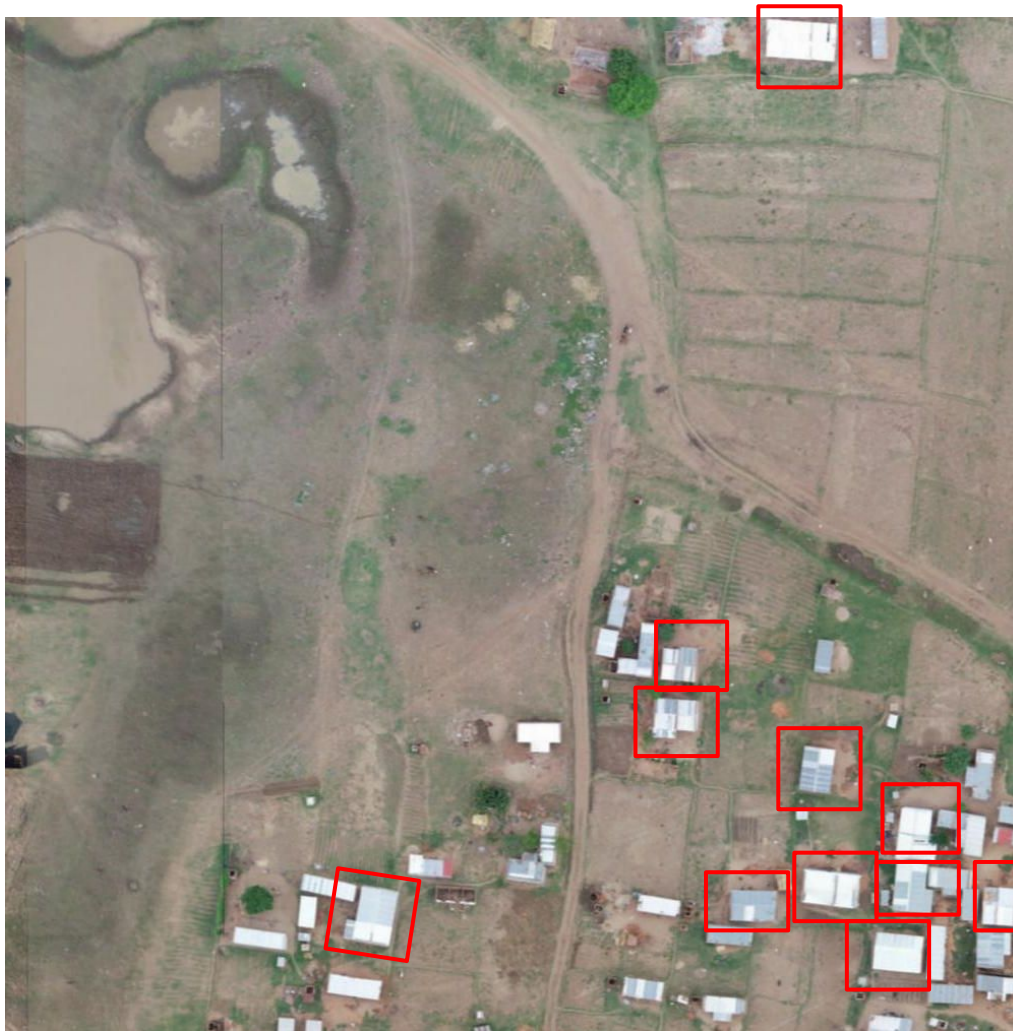

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	3	0

- Unlabeled long building structures are probably storage containers

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	33	0

- Unlabeled structures have less dimensions compared to average house size over the scene

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	11	0

The unlabeled longer structures have shorter width compared to average house size over the scene.

These are probably temporally dwelling structures or storage structures

Thatch	Tin	Other
0	1	0

The unlabeled rectangular structures are piles of burnt bricks

Thatch	Tin	Other
4	0	0

The other thatch structures are kitchens

Thatch	Tin	Other
2	0	0

Small structures next to the bigger building are either toilets and kitchens

Thatch	Tin	Other
2	2	0

Thatch	Tin	Other
7	6	0

Thatch houses are relatively smaller than tin houses in the scene.

The unlabeled tin structures are probably kitchens outside the main house

A dwelling is counted if at least 50% of the dwelling is in the image or if at least 50% is present, for example if a dwelling is under a tree.